“HERE TODAY” PUBLIC ART PROJECTS ON PUBLIC DISPLAY

Eight proposals for temporary public art projects to be completed in downtown Olympia from August 1-31, 2009 will be on display from April 14-28, 2009 at The Olympia Center, 222 Columbia St NW. The goals for the Here Today Temporary Art Project are to bring added vitality to downtown Olympia over the summer, and to provide opportunities for local artists to create public art within their own community.

The project proposals have been through a jury process, a technical review and consideration by the Olympia Arts Commission. The public is invited to view the narrative descriptions of the proposals. Following the public view, the proposals will go before the City Council for final approval. The Olympia Center is located at 222 Columbia St NW, and viewing hours are 8am-7pm Monday-Friday, and Saturday from 8am-5pm. For more information, please contact the Arts Program Office at 709-2678.
